

Doctor, friend and now a daredevil raising vital funds for children with liver disease, Caverna Tiwari is really stepping out of her comfort zone.

The GP from Reading, Berkshire took on her very first sky dive on Sunday, June 30 in aid of Children's Liver Disease Foundation (CLDF).

The charity first came to Caverna's attention when former school friend, Rachel had a child born with the rare liver disease, biliary atresia.

Rachel's son Luke received a life-saving liver transplant in 2012, but Caverna still doesn't believe there is enough awareness about the foundation and the work it does.

Caverna, a GP at Westwood Road Health Centre in Tilehurst, Berkshire said: "From day one of receiving the distressing diagnosis of incurable liver disease, CLDF have been a strong support for my friend Rachel and her family.

"The charity have been there emotionally, providing valuable information and running events which have helped them to connect with other families in their situation"

She added: "Luke is now 18 and has completed his first year at University. He has grown to become a mature and confident young man thanks to the friendships and support he has had made through this amazing charity."

By joining CLDF's 'Big Drop' which took place in Swindon, Wiltshire Caverna has helped raise more than £1700 for the cause, with donations still being accepted.

Caverna added: "My patients have been truly phenomenal in their support, kindness and generosity as have my friends and colleagues who now have proof that I am completely mad! It is simply amazing to be a part of such a wonderful community."
